

DEVELOPMENT

Monica Witczak

The Oriental Institute raised $1,645,504 in fiscal year 2005/2006 in non-federal private grants and gifts. Among the notable gifts received were $100,000 for the Museum, $100,000 for the Chicago Hittite Dictionary, and a twenty-year charitable lead trust to be used for archaeological fieldwork to be named the Robert and Linda Braidwood Fieldwork Award. The following corporations and foundations continued their support of our programs: The Amsted Corporation, The Coleman Foundation, The Fry Foundation, The Joyce Foundation, ABN AMRO North America, the John Nuveen Company, and the University of Chicago Women's Board.

Visiting Committee

The Visiting Committee of the Oriental Institute met on October 19. Assistant Professor of Assyriology Chris Woods gave a presentation on the origins of writing. Joan Fortune, our newest Visiting Committee member, was welcomed to the group at this meeting, which was followed by dinner at the Quadrangle Club. Three new subcommittees were formed this year: the development subcommittee, co-chaired by Carlotta Maher and Roger Nelson; the nominating and governance subcommittee, chaired by Tom Heagy; and the events subcommittee, chaired by Debby Halpern. The spring Visiting Committee meeting was held on May 15, graciously hosted by Tom Heagy at LaSalle Bank. Guest speakers included Steve Camp, who gave a financial report on the completion of the museum reinstallation and Ray Johnson, who spoke on the 2005/2006 season at Chicago House, with a focus on the conservation work which has been recently undertaken there. It was at the spring meeting that Gil Stein announced the creation of the Research Endowment Campaign, a five-year plan to increase the endowments that support the core research projects at the Oriental Institute.

Events

The Director's Dinner commemorating the opening of the Marshall and Doris Holleb Family Gallery for Special Exhibits and the Robert F. Picken Family Nubian Gallery was held on February 20. Our guest speaker, David O'Connor, spoke about the complex relationships that existed between Nubia and ancient Egypt, a theme highlighted throughout the Nubian Gallery. The dinner was held in the Mesopotamian Gallery and was attended by more than 100 guests, including the Holleb and Picken families, as well as President and Mrs. Randel.
