

DEVELOPMENT AND MEMBERSHIP

BILL COSPER, BRAD LENZ, AND EMILY SMITH

The Development and Membership team oversees and undertakes all activities related to ISAC's philanthropic support, membership programming, and event planning. These areas of activity work together to attract, sustain, expand, and strengthen a base of partners and supporters committed to advancing ISAC's mission and goals and increasing our financial resources.

After the staffing impacts and transitions that coincided with the COVID-19 pandemic, by the end of the 2022–23 academic and fiscal year (FY) we had a full team working to fulfill our goals and leverage new opportunities for ISAC and its family of supporters. The team comprised Bill Cosper, director of development; Emily Smith, development and events associate (as of October 2022); and Brad Lenz, assistant director of development and membership (as of April 2023).

Two major events were special highlights of FY 2023. One was the unveiling of our new name and logo. After more than two years of research and planning, the Oriental Institute officially became the Institute for the Study of Ancient Cultures—West Asia & North Africa (ISAC) on April 4, 2023. The name change was undertaken with much thought, research, and time, and our new name more accurately and directly reflects the regions, peoples, and cultures we study and work with. It will shape and guide our long-standing work for years to come. We celebrated this great change with a special reception in the Museum that featured comments from University of Chicago President Paul Alivisatos, Provost Katherine Baicker, and ISAC Interim Director Theo van den Hout and that was attended by more than 150 of our most dedicated friends and supporters.

Making an equally important, if less public, impact on the operational health and well-being of ISAC was the phenomenal gift we received from the estate of longtime dedicated ISAC supporter and Advisory Council member Lois Schwartz. More than $11 million of her bequest has been invested to provide critically important income to support all aspects of our operations and programs, with a significantly smaller portion funding some important shorter-term institutional priorities and needs. Lois and her late husband, Maury, were generous funders of many programs and institutions studying the areas and cultures that are ISAC's focus, and their great generosity to us is a wonderful testament to their legacy.

We were further honored by the creation of the Jill Carlotta Maher Youth and Family Fund by her family and friends as a permanent addition to the legacy of Carlotta Maher, whose leadership and generous financial contributions as a tireless volunteer, champion for Chicago House, and member of ISAC's Advisory Council are ongoing inspirations for everyone here.

It is thanks to contributions of every size and type that ISAC can sustain and expand our more than 100 years of excellence as a center for research, learning, and cultural preservation. To advance the Institute's philanthropic efforts, ISAC's development team works closely with constituents from across the organization, including senior administrative leaders, faculty, researchers, program staff, Advisory Council members, and other volunteers, along with the University of Chicago's Alumni Relations and Development office.

ISAC ADVISORY COUNCIL

Manifested through their leadership, commitment, and generosity, ISAC's Advisory Council members are a crucial aspect of our success and one for which we are immensely grateful. Members of the Council engage with ISAC in many ways, including supporting projects financially, serving as ambassadors for the Institute, volunteering as docents or in collections research, and taking part in our tours, as well as providing guidance and advice based on their careers and experiences.

As of June 30, 2023, Council members included:

**Life member*

We were very sorry to lose four important Council members, who passed away in FY 2023. All of them were passionate supporters of ISAC and deeply engaged in every aspect of their involvement with us:

Arthur Herbst (former chair)
Neil King
Elizabeth (Kitty) Picken
John Rowe (former chair)

PHILANTHROPIC SUPPORT

ISAC is deeply grateful for the generous support provided by our members, donors, and partners in service of our mission to enhance scholarly understanding and public awareness of the places, peoples, and heritages we study. Their financial contributions fueled various research initiatives, cultural preservation endeavors, educational programs, and the ongoing activities of the ISAC Museum and its collections.

This critically important funding, along with the unwavering commitment of ISAC's Advisory Council, members, and volunteers, enables us to support and build on the remarkable dedication of our faculty, staff, and students to fortify ISAC's reputation and impact as one of the world's leading centers for research on the ancient world and to sustain our well-earned reputation for academic excellence and rigor.

Throughout the past year, it is this philanthropic support that has allowed us to deepen and expand every aspect of what we do. For example, after the challenges caused by COVID-19 and other factors, we were thrilled to be getting our fieldwork teams back into full action. ISAC archaeologists, along with their graduate students and research teams, have been working in nations all across our focus regions, at sites straddling several millennia and societies and in places ranging from Egypt to Turkey, from Spain to Uzbekistan, and more. We are especially excited to have three field projects underway in Iraq as of summer 2023, including our impending return to the excavations at Nippur, where we started working more than six decades ago.

MEMBERSHIP

ISAC was pleased to return to full activity in FY 2023—from our field excavations and public programs to every aspect of the ISAC Museum, which welcomed more than 26,500 visitors during the year.

Many of our Museum visitors joined the more than 1,400 families and individuals who were already ISAC members. We were pleased to be able to continue our membership programming activities this past year and to begin planning for a newly enriched and expanded range of member programming in the coming year.

Our monthly lectures offered in 2022–23 drew nearly 1,000 in-person attendees, as well as more than 35,000 viewers on YouTube, both live and via recordings. A sampling of just a few of these talks illustrates the rich opportunities for learning we provided for our members:

- Douglas Baird (University of Liverpool), “Skulls and Animate Houses”
- Peter Der Manuelian (Harvard University), “Visualizing the Pyramids: Old Digs, New Technologies”
- Richard Jasnow (Johns Hopkins University), “Do You Believe in Thoth? My Life with an Amiable Ancient Egyptian God”
- Augusta McMahon (University of Chicago), “Affluent Suburbs or Disenfranchised Banlieue: The Urban Edge at Nippur, Iraq”
- Felipe Rojas Silva (Brown University), “Cuneiform and Cross: Early Armenian Re-use of Urartian Inscriptions”
- Sofía Torallas-Tovar (University of Chicago), “Egyptians in Athens: Following the Trails of Words”

In addition to our monthly lectures, which are open to the public, we held a special, members-only event in November that celebrated the centennial of the rediscovery of Tutankhamun’s tomb. Cosponsored by the Chicago chapter of the American Research Center in Egypt, this event featured guided tours of the Museum, after which Egyptologist and ISAC associate Emily Teeter presented a lively talk about the impact and modern importance of Tutankhamun.

Members expressed their pleasure at continuing to receive both printed and electronic issues of News & Notes, our quarterly magazine, which presents in-depth articles and updates on current topics, research, and other ISAC activities.

We encourage all members to look for forthcoming information about new and expanded programming in the year ahead. It will include more learning opportunities, film screenings, a new member tour program, and much more.

HONOR ROLL OF DONORS AND MEMBERS

ISAC expresses our deepest gratitude to all the generous supporters who advanced ISAC’s mission and influence by making a new contribution, documented pledge, or stated commitment of $100 or more during FY 2023 (the period from July 1, 2022, to June 30, 2023). We take great pleasure in acknowledging their dedication and publicly recognizing the profound impact of their generosity on all we do.
